Encouragement

Excited about the progress she was making on her manuscript, Tara shared the first two chapters with two of her friends for feedback. She also shared her manuscript with a colleague who'd recently published her fifth book.

Tara's friends gave her rave reviews and told Tara they couldn't wait to read the rest. Tara's colleague sent a lengthy email that started, "This needs work." Attached to the email was a red-lined version of Tara's manuscript with comments on almost every line.

Tara spent two weeks in anguish over the email. She just couldn't let it go. Every time she sat down to write more of her book, "this needs work" popped into her mind.

One day, her husband asked how the book was coming along. Tara told him she didn't think her book was going to work. She showed him the email from her colleague.

"This is good advice," Tara's husband said. "It looks like she really took the time to point you in the right direction." Tara's husband encouraged her to call her colleague and discuss the comments. "With her help, your book will be amazing."

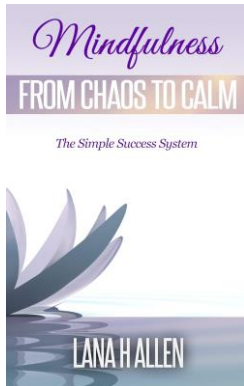

Receiving critical feedback on our writing can be hard to take. However, constructive criticism often comes with valuable lessons. When we put our egos aside long enough to uncover the lesson and allow it to teach us something, the criticism can be a valuable gift.

Prayer:

Dear God, thank You for the people You place in my path as guides to help me follow the plans You have for my life. In Jesus' Name, Amen.

Dancing through the Storms 365 Day Devotional-Surviving the Loss of a Child by Debra Gray-Elliott

The loss of a child is destructive to a parent's heart and soul. When Debra's daughter Ashley Michelle died from AIDS related complications on May 27th, 2013, Debra's life took a turn toward destruction and despair. It was in that moment; Debra's grief became hope. It was the words the Lord spoke to her that inspired Debra to help other grieving parents heal. Dancing through the Storms 365 Day Devotional: Surviving the Loss of a Child takes grieving parents on a daily journey of healing and hope with words that comfort and encourage.

About the author Christian author and speaker Debra Gray-Elliott turned her passion for the Lord's words into a possibility by sharing hope for the lost and healing for the broken. In her inspirational non-fiction books, Debra brings the Lord's message of love and encouragement alive with passion and grace.

Your College Student Needs Your Prayers by Monica Renahan

No mom has discovered the perfect plan to prepare a child for college. But, if you read stories from moms about what they needed, or what they weren't ready for, you'll give yourself a valuable edge. As our students try handling things, we think they know about, we realize how much we never taught them... and how much they're not quite ready to tackle. Help them by sending prayers their way before they face the struggles ahead. Be brave and let go but be ready for the learning curve they will need on independence, adulting, responsibilities, choices, and new challenges.

About the author Writing "Your College Student Needs Your Prayers" and the blog "Life As A College Mom 101" kept Monica busy over the past few years. When she's not writing, family comes first. Her husband, Jim, and daughters, Sarah and Marie, fill her life with smiles. Ask her about why she writes what she does, and she'll tell you, "I couldn't find a book that helped me when I faced the challenges of college parenting. So, I wrote down everything people told me that helped me. Now I want to share that with other moms."

The Paranormal Christian: More True Stories of the Strange and Unusual in the Christian Life (Book II: The Quickening) by Richard D. Lewis

Faith in God and belief in the supernatural go hand-in-hand. Our ancestors had a supernatural worldview. It is the worldview of the Bible. Tales of the paranormal and things that go bump in the night: ghost stories, mythological gods and monsters, even UFOs, captivate the imagination – but how do we square them with sacred Scripture? Blending science, religion, philosophy, mysticism, and real-life encounters, author and journalist Richard D. Lewis digs even deeper into the unknown, providing a guide to correlate mysterious phenomena with today's headlines, and the Biblical worldview. Are we in the last days? What does it all mean?

About the author Richard D. Lewis is an author, journalist, and veteran of the U.S. Air Force. A graduate of the Defense Information School's broadcasting and journalism programs, Richard worked in TV production in Salt Lake City, Utah, and Los Angeles. He is a certified spiritual counselor and communicant member of the Lutheran Church Missouri Synod. Richard has been featured in numerous publications, TV shows, and radio broadcasts, most recently, Coast to Coast AM. Learn more at richarddlewisauthor.com

When the Going Gets Tough

by Karen McMullin

Where do you run when the going gets tough? Who do you seek for comfort or someone's counsel? Do you have a safe hiding place? Can you say with confidence the LORD is my refuge and peace?

Oftentimes we turn to God in crisis mode. It is when we hear the doctor say the big C word, cancer, fear comes and grips our heart. If the boss calls you in to say the office is downsizing and you're fired. Gulp!

Then we look in the heart of our toolbox to find an anchor for our soul. If you have studied and hidden the Word of God in your heart, then it is much easier to navigate when devastating news comes to your ears. The lump is still choking you when fear knocks at your heart door but, will faith answer?

It is in times of peace soldiers go to boot camp. And it is in times of peace we need to fill our arsenals. When Jesus was tempted by the devil, he responded with "it is written ". Apostle Paul tells us in Ephesians that the Word of God in our mouth is a sword. Before we can speak it with the authority of the Sword, we must have it rooted in our belief system. Filling your arsenal with the Word of God is knowing the Word in your heart .

Knowing the multifaceted attributes of God will increase the caliber of your confidence. Do you know El Roi or Jehovah Shammah for when you feel alone? When sickness knocks on the door do you know Jehovah Jireh and El Shaddai?

Meditating on who God is and knowing that He is consistent will fortify your resolve, enrich your worship, and fill your heart with joy to replace the anxiety. This is the mandate God has placed on my heart, to make Him known and to bring peace to His people.

About the author Karen McMullin is a seasoned Bible teacher with over four decades of experience in leading Ladies' Bible Studies. Since 1993, she has served as a devoted assistant to her husband, who is the Senior Pastor of Abundant Life Fellowship Church. Inspired by the call of God, Karen has now ventured into the online world, where she works as a Creativepreneur and Life Coach. Karen's wisdom, compassion, and deep understanding of spiritual matters have made her a sought-after mentor and trusted advisor to many.

Christmas Captive by Judah Knight

Love is always willing to risk it all.

Jon and Meg Davenport return to Washington DC for a quiet Christmas celebration with the President and his family. Their time in the White House, however, is anything but quiet when they learn Jon's niece, Kate, is missing. Kate's parents shrug off the embarrassment because this isn't Kate's first time to disappear in DC. Jon and Meg aren't convinced and decide to investigate. Clean romance, suspense, action! Is Kate's disappearance the fling of a young adult looking for fun, or is she in serious trouble?

About the author Judah Knight grew up telling stories and soon learned that storytelling was a powerful tool to convey important truths and life principles. As an avid backpacker and scuba diver, and marriage and family counselor, he now uses his adventures and experiences as a counselor to craft fun and exciting stories about relationships and adventures to relate important messages about life and love. He received an undergraduate degree from the University of Georgia as well as graduate degrees from schools in Texas and Louisiana.

Step Out of the Boat

by Jodie Wolfe

“Lord, if it’s you,” Peter replied, “tell me to come to you on the water.” “Come,” he said.

Then Peter got down out of the boat, walked on the water and came toward Jesus. ~ Matthew 14:28-29 (NIV)

I’ve always loved this story about Jesus. Can you picture it? The wind is whipping those waves, rocking the boat the disciples are in. The men are terrified when they see someone walking on the water towards them. They think it’s a ghost. But as He comes closer and speaks to them, they recognize His voice. The Lord instructs Peter to join Him on the water. Peter decides to step out of his comfort zone. His safe place. He trusts God to be there with him. Peter willingly took a huge leap away from his secure seat in the boat when the Lord directed Him. Peter put his complete faith in Jesus.

How do you need to move forward in faith today? Has He been calling you to do something challenging? Maybe it’s time to step out of the boat and trust the Lord has a special plan for the next step of your journey.

Wooing Gertrude (Burrton Springs Brides)

Peace has been elusive for most of Gertrude Miller's life, especially under the oppressiveness of an overbearing mother.

She takes matters into her own hands and sends for a potential husband, while also opening her own dress shop. Gertrude hopes to build a future where she'll find peace and happiness.

Will either of them ever be able to find peace?

How Long, O Lord?

by Mandy Farmer

Publishing a book always takes longer than we expect.

So, we ask God, “Why? This message needs to get out to the masses.”

It’s only in retrospect that we will see His reasoning. His timing is always perfect. Matthew Henry writes, “We must wait with patience for the full discovery of that which to us seems intricate and perplexed, acknowledging that we cannot find out the work that God makes from the beginning to the end.”

God may give glimpses of His reasoning, but it’s largely a trust thing, knowing it will turn out perfectly. I have experienced this with my health, my ministry, and my writing. God told the prophet Habakkuk what was going to happen, and it wasn’t pretty.

(Read the book of Habakkuk. It’s only three chapters. )

Habakkuk chose to trust God’s process. His response: “Even though the fig trees have no blossoms... no grapes on the vines... olive crop fails... fields lie barren... flocks die in the fields... barns empty, yet I will rejoice in the LORD!”

Author’s Habakkuk prayer: “Even when I not inspired, can’t get the word count, editor is critical, no money to pay for help, yet I will praise You!”

About the author Mandy Farmer served as a children’s minister for 25 years; teaching, singing, and developing curriculum. However, in 2011, her life took an unexpected turn, and she began her journey with chronic pain.

She retired but desired to share her journey with others and started a blog. She found that writing was great therapy and began writing devotions relating to the struggles of illness.

Encouraged to publish, she began her publishing journey, beginning with picture books. Her second picture book, Soft Hugs for Mommy, will be released in the spring of ’24.

The Groom so faithfully takes His Place,
There He waits for the radiant face,
Of the One for whom He gave His Life,
Today, The Groom finally takes His Bride,

The Bride has given her all to Him,
Forever, they'll live in wedded bliss,
She is being placed in her wedding gown,
In anticipation of the gathered crowd,

But it is He, that Her heart seeks,
Finally, today their eyes will meet,
Finally, today she will understand His Love,
For today, earth's past and Heaven's begun,

She waits beyond the hidden veil,
In longing of The Groom that's there,
She keeps her eyes focused up above,
As her heart yearns completion inside of His Love,

Just beyond the veil He sees,
His Bride as He created her to be,
To Him, she has finally surrendered her all,
The Groom then signals for the trumpet call!

~ Found in the soon to be released, Heavenly Wedding Day. Release Date: October 27th, 2023. ~

About the author Robin Ayscue's heart is to glorify God with her life and minister to others with her writing as God has ministered to her. Robin is currently the author of five books. Secret Places of the Heart, Melodies from the Chamber, Songs of the Sunrise, and The Grace Garden. The soon-to-be-released, Heavenly Wedding Day will be the fifth in her, "Secret Heart Places," series. When not doing her passion for writing, she enjoys redecorating the home she grew up in, traveling to Secret Heart Places, photography, Bible Study, gardening, and of course, reading.

And it came to pass

by Oluwatoyin E. OluToks

Genesis 4:6-8 - "And the LORD said unto Cain, Why art thou wrath? and why is thy countenance fallen? If thou doest well, shalt thou not be accepted? and if thou doest not well, sin lieth at the door. And unto thee shall be his desire, and thou shalt rule over him.

"And Cain talked with Abel his brother: and it came to pass, when they were in the field, that Cain rose up against Abel his brother, and slew him."

He was wrath because his offering was not accepted and his countenance fell as a result of envy toward his brother Abel. His ego was altered before his brother's face and he began to nurture how to eliminate him.

Cain didn't carry out his vicious act against his brother overnight, he actually nursed it for a while. Because the Word says, "and it came to pass", which means, he had planned it before he made it happened. He was already caught up in the web of envy and contempt towards Abel his brother.

One major thing that was missing in Cain's life toward his brother was a heart to love. He lacked love and was void of love. God's warning was out of love and wanted him to repent but he refused and killed Abel. If he had love and repented, he would have overcome the hatred in his heart by God's help and mercy.

Many a time over familiarity in our relationship with God is dangerous. May we not take Him for granted and may we heed to His command to love our neighbor as ourselves in Jesus Name.

Short Story

God Provides the Way

When God has given you a vision, you can trust Him to provide the way. This is what He did from the very beginning with Nehemiah. Not only did He grant him favor in front of the king, but He also provided for him as well.

The royal cup bearer asked for letters to provide him safe passage and the timber he would need (Nehemiah 2:7-8). The king of course granted these requests. But listen to how Nehemiah explains what happened...

“And because the gracious hand of my God was on me, the king granted my requests.” – Nehemiah 2:8

Note that Nehemiah didn't say “because the king was gracious” or “because I asked so eloquently” or even “because my plan was flawless”. What Nehemiah does in this instance and throughout the book is point back to God's favor and goodness.

Did you know that God delights in you? Do you believe it? When something good happens in your life, do you point back to it and say, “God blessed me with...”?

Maybe you have trouble with this concept. Perhaps you've never known what it's like to be “delighted in”. Your father was abusive. Your mother rejected you. Your siblings mocked you. Your friends betrayed you. You feel used up and unwanted. You doubt that God could look at you and see anything worth “delighting in”.

Oh, but He does, dear one. He enjoys the sound of your laugh. He chose the freckles that would dust your shoulders. He picked the color of your hair and chose exactly where that one birthmark would be placed.

He knit you together (Psalm 139:13). God Himself chose every element of your DNA. You are His creation, and you delight Him. Not because of what you've done or haven't done. Not because of what you've said or haven't said.

You delight God simply because you are His unique creation. You are His child, and your very existence fills Him with joy. He rejoices over you.

He sings over you every night (Zephaniah 3:17) and carries you in His arms each day (Deuteronomy 1:31, Psalm 68:19).

Like Nehemiah, you can boldly proclaim that “the gracious hand of God is upon me”.
